Botanica - Noon

September 27th - Botanica Robert Feeney The Secret to Changing Human Behavior

The next frontier beyond corporate training and performance is health and wellness – empowering people who struggle with health – including mental or physical or emotional – to develop new habits that make a difference in their lives.

There is a transformation of a major industry underway, which is generating from Wichita entrepreneurship. It will be life-altering for everyone, globally. It is the transformation of “learning” as we know it.

October 4 - Botanica Dr. Rick Muma Wichita State University

Dr. Rick Muma, 15th President of Wichita State University, will provide an update on the priorities and the trajectory of the University. Information will include how WSU is helping advance our community and businesses. They are concentrating on providing an affordable education to our students while focusing on growing our workforce and supporting our region's long-term economic prosperity through applied research and applied learning. These objectives will be supported by initiatives such as increasing need-based aid for students, research in digital transformation and preliminary work on a proposed academic health science center.
